INTRODUCTION

Studying Spanish at A-Level will first and foremost allow you to become fluent in the language, as you will significantly widen your knowledge of grammar and vocabulary, and you will routinely converse in Spanish in the lesson. The course is also aimed at enhancing your knowledge of Spanish and Latin American culture, through the study of film, literature and society trends.

SUPPORT

If you need additional support, speak to either of your teachers, who will be able to give you advice on how to develop the language skills you are finding challenging.

WHAT TO BRING FOR YOUR FIRST LESSON

Simply bring a pen: we will provide you with an exercise book. If you have a copy of your GCSE knowledge organiser or if you have a GCSE revision guide, these will also be useful in your first lesson. We will also expect you to bring your own earphones or headphones to certain lessons.

CLASSWORK, HOMEWORK AND INDEPENDENT STUDY

Throughout the course, you will be set a wide variety of directed study tasks, including grammar or translation exercises, listening tasks, summaries, essays and research projects. In class, we expect you to speak Spanish as often as possible.

RESOURCES

You will be given access to online resources on the Kerboodle website and you will be provided with a copy of the book you will be studying. You will also have access to unlimited articles from a Spanish newspaper (ask for login details).
